

Charles Moore, is an oceanographer and founder of the Algalita Marine Research Foundation (AMRF)—a Long Beach, California-based non-profit marine research and education organization. Moore has been integral in drawing the world's attention to the oceanic plastics pollution problem. He brought global attention to the "Great Pacific Garbage Patch"—vast expanses of plastic garbage in the North Pacific Gyre. Moore captains the oceanographic research vessel: Alguita.